
Registration Terms | June 7, 2023Subject to change

By registering for any meeting, workshop, webinar, or event (“Event”) offered by the University Industry Demonstration Partnership and/or its subsidiaries (“UIDP”), you acknowledge that you have read and agree to the terms provided below and any other terms that may be set forth at any time by UIDP. You understand that information about the Event, such as the venue, date, time, agenda, speakers and special promotions, may be changed at any time at UIDP’s sole discretion. You further understand that UIDP may cancel the Event at any time due to changed circumstances. Any changes will be reflected on www.uidp.org or on the Event website.

You may be updated about the Event or notified of any material change by the email address that you provide through registration. You understand that all registrations are subject to review and approval. You further understand and agree that your registration information will be stored by UIDP for future email communications regarding UIDP events and projects, and general news about and relevant to UIDP and its membership. If you do not wish to be contacted, please notify UIDP at info@uidp.net.

Different fees are charged based on whether you're affiliated with a member organization or a non-member organization. Your category selection is subject to review by UIDP staff. If your category selection needs to be changed, you will be notified about the change and invoiced for the difference in cost. Should you be unable to attend, a named substitute may attend in your place at no extra charge. All cancellations will be assessed a $100 administrative fee. Less than two weeks prior to the start of the event UIDP will offer a credit of equal value to attend another UIDP event but no refunds will be given.

In some cases, UIDP uses third-party online platforms to deliver content during its webinars, workshops, conferences and other events. By logging in and making use of those platforms, you agree to the terms and conditions set forth for use of those platforms.

UIDP may create and retain video and audio recordings, including live video streaming, and photographs from the Event (“Materials”). In consideration for your participation in the Event, you agree: (a) to be photographed, and/or recorded by video and audio, and/or to have your image live-streamed or otherwise broadcast during the Event, (b) to grant UIDP and its assigns the right to use, reproduce, and disseminate Materials containing your image and/or voice in any media and for any purpose, including but not limited to promotional and advertising purposes, (c) that such grant is irrevocable, worldwide, perpetual, and royalty-free, (d) that UIDP may alter, modify, drop, and/or combine your image and/or voice with other images, text, and graphics, (e) that UIDP may freely license, assign, and otherwise, convey the rights to the Materials, and (f) that you have no rights to Materials and specifically waive any right to review or edit Materials prior to their use or dissemination.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, you, binding your heirs, estate, executors, administrators, assigns, and personal representative(s), forever release, waive, and agree to hold harmless UIDP and its directors, officers, employees, contractors, volunteers, agents, and affiliates from any and all claims, losses, and liabilities arising from or related to your registration and participation in the Event, including but not limited to any claims arising from (a) the cancellation or postponement of the Event, (b) electronic, online, and/or platform malfunction or failure, and (c) the use, replication, and dissemination of Materials. This release does not purport to release UIDP from liability for fraud, intentional torts, gross negligence, or violations of law. All aspects (e.g., validity and performance) of this agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of Delaware.

UIDP Code of Conduct

UIDP is committed to providing a safe and productive Event environment that fosters open dialogue and the exchange of ideas, promotes equal opportunities and treatment for all participants, and is free of harassment and discrimination. All participants are expected to treat others with respect and consideration, follow platform/venue rules, and alert staff or security of any dangerous situations or anyone in distress. All participants and observers are expected to uphold standards of scientific integrity and professional ethics. This includes notifying UIDP staff in advance of the Event about any possible conflicts of interest. UIDP recognizes that there are areas of partnership and research engagement that are controversial. UIDP Events can serve as an effective forum to consider and debate relevant viewpoints in an orderly, respectful, and fair manner.

UIDP prohibits any form of harassment, sexual or otherwise. Harassment should be reported immediately. This policy applies to all UIDP Events and activities, and the policies herein apply to all organizers, attendees, speakers, staff, contractors, volunteers, and guests at the Event.

Reporting Harassment

UIDP is committed to supporting a productive and safe working environment for everyone at the Event. If an individual experiences or witnesses harassment, they should contact a UIDP team member, or for in-person Events use a venue phone and ask for security if they feel unsafe. All complaints will be treated seriously and responded to promptly. If an individual experiences harassment, it is recommended that, in addition to notifying UIDP President Anthony Boccanfuso, the details be written down, as report completion may be requested. Individuals reporting incidents are not expected to discuss the incident with the offending party. Their confidentiality will be maintained to the extent that it does not compromise the rights of others.

If an individual wishes to file a formal complaint of harassment:

- Notify an Event contact point: info@uidp.org or call 803-807-3679
- The UIDP Event point of contact will then discuss the details first with the individual filing the complaint, then with the alleged offender using contact information provided or by other means; seek counsel if the appropriate course of action is unclear; and report findings to UIDP leadership.
- UIDP will consult with the individual filing the complaint prior to taking any action.

UIDP reserves the right to remove an individual from the meeting/event without warning or refund, prohibit attendance at future UIDP Events, and notify the individual's employer.

Questions: For any questions about this policy, contact UIDP at info@uidp.org or call 803-807-3679.