Anything you do to the design will be an improvement on what you have now!

The new colours are very eye-catching and bold!

The new colours are AWFUL

I am very upset with the changes made to your site

I like the idea of the website being redone - well overdue!

I don't like any of the new designs

Go back to the old format and the old way of finding newspapers!

We love the Trove green!

This design looks fresh, but I don't like the green
Will everything in Trove change?

• Viewing and using newspapers and Government Gazettes will stay the same

• More of the content you know and love

• Trove’s infrastructure and supporting systems will not change

Have you become a Trove tester yet?
Sign up to help shape the future of Trove - for everyone!
Trove is seeking volunteers to give feedback and take part in testing activities. This is a great opportunity to have a say and help improve Trove.

Ballarat focus group invitation
We are seeking 5 Trove users for an in-person focus group in Ballarat. You'll be asked to share your opinion on early ideas for how Trove will look in future – its visual design. All ages and backgrounds welcome, so long as you're a current user of Trove.

BUSINESS VISION
Where we want to be in five years

By 2023, Trove will be the first place Australians go to research their culture and history. It will be rich with digital resources – historically digitised and contemporary – allowing for users to search, play, visualise and interrogate digital collections.

BRAND POSITIONING
What sets us apart in the mind of our audience/s

Trove is a National cultural collective of partners, contributors and communities collaborating and curating to create new knowledge for Australians everywhere.

For all voices. For knowledge. For free.
