

ChemSECURE

CONFERENCE ORGANIZER

May 9-11, 2011

Location: New Orleans, LA
New Orleans Marriott

One of the Industry's Premier Events Focused on Security The ChemSecure Conference & Expo returns for 2011!

Designed to support the chemical industry's efforts to implement and comply with the various DHS regulatory framework requirements into its existing management systems programs, ChemSecure has expanded its scope to include chemical security as a whole and has quickly become an event that cannot be missed.

Valuable Interaction

By attending ChemSecure, you will hear, first-hand, about the progress on the Chemical Facilities Anti-Terrorism Standards (CFATS) and the Maritime Transportation Security Act (MTSA) implementation directly from government representatives from DHS, TSA and Coast Guard. Learn more about the continuing efforts to harmonize these requirements and the new developments with MTSA II and rail security regulations.

Security Issues Across Several Fronts

While DHS regulatory requirements remain the focus of ChemSecure, rest assured that this year's conference also provides valuable insights into other topics critical to your company. These include security at the local level, perspectives from your transportation partners, emerging technologies, and other issues from stakeholders along the supply chain.

Virtual Security Attacks

Cyber-security threats, such as the recent Stuxnet attack, pose a unique challenge to the Chemical Sector. With the industry's heavy reliance on automation and system connectivity, it is crucial to consider the physical impacts to plant security and process safety in the event of a cyber-attack. Make sure you have a seat at the table by registering today to hear from experts on this ever-growing issue.

Special DHS Add-On Session

Immediately after ChemSecure 2011, DHS will be hosting a complimentary session on Chemical Sector Explosives Awareness Training. This session will also be held at the New Orleans Marriott and a separate registration, independent of ChemSecure, is required for this special training.

Visit <http://guest.event.com/d/gdq11z> for more details.

Who should attend?

If you are responsible for any of the following, make plans to join us:

- Site & Corporate Security
- Process Control Security
- Supply Chain Security

GENERAL SESSION VI ROADMAP TO SECURING CONTROL SYSTEMS IN THE CHEMICAL SECTOR

Facilitator: Christine Adams, Catalyst35

*Panel: Steve Salvo, Air Products;
DHS NCSD CSSP (Control Systems Security Program)*

With the chemical industry's heavy reliance on automation and system connectivity, it is essential to ensure the security of a facility's process control systems. In 2009, the Chemical Sector, in partnership with the Department of Homeland Security, published the Roadmap to Secure Control Systems in the Chemical Sector. The Roadmap presents a vision, along with a supporting framework of goals and milestones, to improve the cyber security posture of Industrial Control Systems (ICS) within the sector. This session will provide an overview of the Roadmap, describe the collaborative efforts underway in the working group, communicate the progress made toward the Roadmap milestones, and provide information about the resources available.

10:00 – 10:30 am

GENERAL SESSION VII

Responsible Care® Security Code

Facilitator: Diane Larson, Occidental

Panel: Dan Roczniak, ACC

James Caverly, DHS

After almost a decade of existence, the Responsible Care Security Code continues to stand the test of time. The code's requirements have served as a model for many state and federal initiatives and provide ACC members and Partners with a strong foundation for meeting their regulatory requirements for CTPAT, CFATS, MTSA and HM-232. The panelists will share practical examples of how the code assists their organizations to meet government mandates and obtain additional recognition. Ongoing efforts to obtain additional governmental recognition will also be presented during the session.
