

MEDTRONIC PRIVACY NOTICE

For Medtronic event registrants based in the United States

Last updated: April 2026

This notice describes how Medtronic collects and uses information about you ("personal data") in connection with the activities described below, when you register for and participate in Medtronic events.

Unless set out otherwise below, the Medtronic company responsible for processing your personal data is Medtronic Inc. (together "Medtronic ", "we" or "us").

In this privacy notice, we'll tell you what personal data we obtain about you, how we use that information, with whom we share it, what rights you have regarding your information, and how to contact us to exercise these rights.

This privacy notice does not apply when you have been notified that an alternative notice applies (for example on other Medtronic websites) or where Medtronic processes your personal data on behalf of your medical institution or healthcare professional in connection with your medical treatment. Your medical institution and/or healthcare professional is solely responsible for the processing of your personal data for the provision of your medical treatment and care. In such instance, your data is subject to your medical institution's own data policies and privacy notices. When we obtain your data this way, we'll use it only based on the instructions of your medical institution, unless we are required to do so to comply with our regulatory obligations, or your medical institution has authorized us to further use your data, as described below.

Our website or the Medtronic app may contain links to other apps or websites. Some of those websites or apps may be operated by Medtronic, Inc., and some may be operated by third parties. Medtronic and its affiliates, including our international affiliates, also operate other websites. This privacy notice does not apply to any other application or website, even if operated by Medtronic. When you leave our website or the Medtronic app, please read the privacy notice at each place you visit to see how that location processes your data. In addition, some sections of this privacy notice only apply to certain geographies, as described further below. This privacy notice does not apply to data processing activities specifically relating to current or former Medtronic employees or applicants – the relevant notice may be requested by contacting AskHR@Medtronic.com.

Personal data we collect and how we use it

This section describes how Medtronic uses your personal data (also known as your personal information in certain jurisdictions) collected via our website or the Medtronic app. The information we collect depends on the functionality of the website or the Medtronic app, and how you use it, as detailed below. Unless we need your personal data to comply with laws and regulations, you are not required to provide information to us but, if you choose not to do so, we may not be able to offer you certain services and related features, or to respond to requests that you may have.

Registering for an event

We may collect and process your Personal Data to create and manage your event registration and attendance.

- What personal data we obtain
  - Identification information, such as your name, gender, date of birth, phone number, email address, physical address, and mailing address.
  - Location data, such as your country/region and language preference.
  - Passport number, credit card information.
  - Guest's name
  - Professional information of healthcare professional, such as your profession, your job title and your medical specialty, your degree, your NPI, the name and address of the institution you work for and your professional email address (if you are providing your information as a healthcare professional).
  - Patient information including, product information, HCP name and location, biography.
- How we use your data
  - Create and manage your event registration.
  - Facilitate various aspects of travel and/or meeting attendance, reporting and post-meeting evaluation. Not all meetings will utilize data in each of these contexts. However, by agreeing to these usages, you enable us to make arrangements for you if additional needs arise prior to and/or during the event. For example, your data may be used to facilitate:

- Air travel booking, logistics and expenses
- Hotel arrangements, rooming lists with check-in dates/check-out dates, and any special requests/preferences you may have (i.e., accessible room, allergen free pillow, frig in room, near ice machine, far from elevator bank, etc.)
- Food & Beverage headcounts
- Special requests to additionally manage your attendance (i.e., food allergies, special diet, etc.)
- Ground transportation arrangements and manifests with arrival/departure times, etc.
- Duty of Care manifest for travel management company to include emergency contact information in the event of an emergency
- Continuing Education Credits or Certificate of Completion
- Mobile App Roster
- Transparency / disclosure of “transfers of value”
- Event and Conference Support (i.e., provide you with conference information and follow up)
- Guest attendance (i.e., we will collect credit card info to charge a guest fee)

We may further use your event registration information, together with the information collected through Medtronic’s products or services, to communicate with you and provide you with the products and services you requested, unless you have been notified that an alternative notice applies to such use.

Participating in events or interviews

You may wish to participate in one of our physical or virtual events (such as workshops, meetings, webinars or live broadcast events), or we may ask you to share your story, provide testimonial or take part in an interview about your treatment with a Medtronic product. In this case, we’ll need to process some personal data about you, as described below.

- What personal data we obtain

If you participate in one of our events, testimonials or interviews, the types of personal data we obtain or process about you include:

- Identification/contact information, such as your name (or a fictitious name to protect your privacy), email address, nationality, country.
  - Personal details, such as dietary requirements, where applicable.
  - Professional information, such as your job type, title.
  - Product/service of interest to you, where applicable.
  - Health data, such as the medical condition treated by the Medtronic product (if you are providing information as a patient);
  - Images, video and/or audio recordings of you, if our event/interview is filmed or recorded.
- How we use your data

We will use your data to organize and facilitate the event/interview, and conduct Medtronic's educational, promotional, and advertising activities. We will do so with your (explicit) consent, where required by applicable law (e.g., if the event is recorded and/or we obtain sensitive information such as your health data), or as otherwise necessary for the purposes of Medtronic's legitimate interests in promoting and supporting Medtronic activities.

The Medtronic entity responsible for processing your data for the above purposes is the Medtronic affiliate organizing the event/interview (in practice, the Medtronic business entity of the country where the event takes place).

Participating in surveys

From time to time, we may invite you to participate in a Medtronic survey to gather your feedback to help us determine customer satisfaction levels, identify areas of potential improvement or to carry out market research.

- What personal data we obtain

To the extent possible, we will gather your feedback in an anonymous manner. In some cases, however, the survey may gather identifiable respondent information. In such instance, the types of the personal data we obtain or process about you include:

- Identification/contact information, such as your name, email address, phone number.
  - Professional information of healthcare professional, such as your profession, your job title and your medical specialty, your degree, your NPI, the name and address of the institution you work for and your professional email address
  - Opinions, views, or information you choose to provide us as part of your survey responses. If you are a patient, this may include your age and information about your health, such as your medical condition, type of Medtronic product/services you are treated with, details of the medical procedure you underwent as a patient.
  - Where applicable, information collected by automated means (including cookies), such as your IP address, and survey metadata (e.g., the language you take the survey in, duration of your survey response, last date the survey was started).
- How we use your data

We will use your personal data to conduct the survey, including to send it to you, allow you to submit your survey responses, prevent survey fraud, analyze the survey results, and improve or develop our products and services, accordingly, based on our legitimate interests to do so or with your consent, where required by applicable law.

Data you provide to us

We may ask that you, your account administration, or any individual authorized by you not to send or disclose any other personal data other than the data that we ask you to provide using our therapies, related services or otherwise to us. Any data you provide on this form may be processed by the event organizer.

Sensitive data use

Some of the data we collect, and use is considered sensitive under applicable laws, which may include, for example, health- and financial-related data and genetic/biometric data. Our collection and use of sensitive personal data is limited to that which is necessary to provide you with your requested services, including treating your condition. In applicable regions, you can choose to withdraw or withhold your consent, but you may not be able to use certain services or Medtronic app functionality where sensitive data is necessary.

In certain circumstances, Medtronic may process your sensitive data, in particular your health data if relevant, on behalf of your healthcare provider (e.g., to transmit your health data to your healthcare provider). In this case, Medtronic acts as a data processor, service provider, or business associate as those terms are defined under local laws. To the extent that Medtronic processes your sensitive data otherwise, you will be asked to give your explicit consent, to the extent required by law.

Cookies and similar technologies

When you visit our websites or the Medtronic app, we may collect certain information by standard practices, including cookies and similar technologies, such as Flash cookies, local storage, web beacons and pixels, JavaScript, software development kits (SDKs), and device identifiers. While personal data collected through these technologies is not shared for money or other similar compensation, the use of these technologies may be considered personal data sharing under applicable law. The types of technologies, purposes of use, parties involved, and controls available to you, which may vary across Medtronic digital offerings, are detailed in our cookie policy.

What personal data we obtain

Your device information including the IP address, identifiers associated with your devices, device and operating system type and characteristics, language preferences, your interactions with our websites or Medtronic apps (such as the pages you visit, links you click and features you use, dates and times of access to our website or the Medtronic app, the website or source that linked or referred you to our services), and other information about your use of the Medtronic app.

How we use your data

Cookies and similar technologies ("cookies") are used by Medtronic for several reasons. Cookies are sometimes necessary for our website or the Medtronic app to operate correctly. For example, secure logins may use cookies to work properly, and cookies may also be used to identify any suspicious activities so we can try to protect users from payment fraud and other inappropriate activities. Cookies allow us to collect information about how you use our services (e.g., how you downloaded our Medtronic app or where you downloaded it from) and how the app is used on your mobile device (e.g. what features you use and how well our services work). We may use cookies to collect demographic information (e.g., age, location), count the visitors to our website or the Medtronic app, and learn how they use our website or the Medtronic app and their features. This enables us to continually improve the visitor's experience. Cookies may also allow us to provide you with enhanced functionality such as video content and show you targeted ads on other sites or social media channels. Depending on your location, some cookies may require your consent. Learn more about our use of cookies and how to manage your cookie settings and preferences.

Telephonic Contact

By disclosing the phone number(s) you provide to Medtronic, we may contact those number(s), including via text, SMS, or voice call, for the purposes defined in this privacy notice, as well as for responding to requests you make of Medtronic. If you provide an additional consent for marketing communications as required by local regulations, Medtronic may then contact you by telephone for marketing, advertising, or offers of sale of Medtronic therapies or related services as well.

When making contact by telephone, we may use automated technologies (including recordings and auto-dialing), and telephone, airtime, message, and data rates may apply. Consent is not a condition for purchase or services. You may opt out of telephonic contact from Medtronic using automated technologies and for marketing communications at any time by texting "STOP" in reply to a text message or for marketing messages, or by signing into your Medtronic profile and updating your communication preferences.

If you are a United States resident, by providing your phone number(s) and/or consent(s), you certify that (a) you are age 13 and older, (b) the contact information you provide is yours, and (c) you authorize and consent to use of the information provided for Medtronic to contact you.

Secondary Use of Data

With the authorization of your medical institution, or with your explicit consent, if applicable, your data, including relevant health data, may be further used for Medtronic legitimate business purposes, including to improve and develop Medtronic products and services, to conduct benchmarking, business analytics or market research, to train and educate Medtronic personnel or healthcare professionals, or to support regulatory filings and the reimbursement of Medtronic products and services, based on Medtronic legitimate interests to do so. For such purposes, your data will be used in a de-identified, aggregated, or otherwise anonymized manner.

Compliance with Law and Medtronic Policies/Legal rights

In some circumstances, we are obliged to process personal data to comply with applicable legal requirements and our policies, to perform auditing and other internal functions, or for litigation and dispute resolution purposes.

What personal data we obtain

- Your identification and contact information, and any other information as is necessary and relevant to the particular case, e.g., in the event of an (internal) audit, information contained in documents and materials audited, or in the event of litigation, information gathered in the evidence necessary for the litigation.

How we use your data

We will use your information - in an anonymized, de-identified or redacted form, where appropriate - in order to:

- Comply with applicable legal requirements, regulations, court orders or other legal processes.
- Comply with our policies.
- Establish, exercise, or defend our legal rights.
- Conduct (internal) audits, investigations, or due diligence checks for the above reasons.

We will do so as necessary to comply with legal obligations to which we are subject in your country or region, or as needed to fulfil our legitimate interests, in particular in conducting business in compliance with all applicable laws and the highest ethical standards, protecting our rights or property, protect someone's health, safety or welfare; and asserting or defending legal claims, or with your consent where required by law.

Data sharing

In the ordinary course of business in carrying out the purposes described in this notice, we may share your personal data with certain categories of third parties, including:

Medtronic affiliated companies: Given the corporate structure of Medtronic and its affiliates, your personal data may be shared with other affiliates within the Medtronic group.

Service providers: Medtronic may share personal data with relevant third-party service providers, who act on our behalf to fulfill the activities noted in this privacy notice, including IT providers, providers of communication tools and customer relationship management systems, survey tool providers or platforms, event organization management tool providers, outsourced operations such as email automation tool providers, cloud hosting service providers, and contract management platform providers.

Health care providers and regulators: As described above, Medtronic may disclose personal data to your physician to coordinate or manage your health care and related services. This may also include other health care provider(s) who, at your request, become involved with the management of your care, online account, or related services. Medtronic may also disclose your personal data to support the daily activities related to health care and other health oversight agencies such as government agencies to support with audits, investigations, and inspections.

Business partners and other specialists: To the extent relevant of our website or the Medtronic app or our websites, Medtronic may share personal data with external organizations with which it has partnered (such as research partners and partners in co-branded initiatives), established contractual protections or benefits from statutory protections, and with external specialists or professional advisors within a particular field (such as lawyers, consultants, tax advisors, auditors, specialist delivery providers, banks, payment service providers and benchmarking agencies). In cases where those third parties are independently responsible for the processing of your personal data, their privacy notice will apply to their processing of your data.

For legal and other related interests: Medtronic may share personal data where it is:

- Required by law

- Required to disclose and/or share your personal data with regulatory, public, or governmental authorities to comply with any law, regulation, court order, legal or government request
- Allowed or required by law for public health purposes, including reporting complaints and quality issues to medical device regulators
- Needed to protect its own or others vital interests, including the safety of life and property, or for investigating illegal or malicious activities, where allowed by law
- Needed to exercise or defend legal claims
- It is believed that disclosure is necessary or appropriate to prevent physical or other harm or financial loss
- Needed with its corporate affiliates, who have the same privacy requirements
- Needed to fulfill corporate transactions (such as mergers, acquisitions, dissolutions, or divestitures), as well as for to companies with whom Medtronic is working on a potential or pending corporate transaction

Others, per your request: With your consent, we will share your personal data with any other parties you choose, such as your caregivers.

If we share your personal data with third parties, we will require them to sign a data processing agreement or include data protection clauses in the cooperation agreement before proceeding. This ensures that the company assumes the applicable privacy protection obligations and responsibilities.

International transfers

In some cases, Medtronic may transmit, or store personal data collected with affiliates, vendors, or sites in other countries. We will only transfer personal data as allowed by applicable law to further the purposes set out in this document. Where personal data is transferred to another country, we take administrative and technical measures to ensure adequate safeguards and protections are applied as provided for by applicable law. In cases where personal data is transmitted to other countries, we will ensure that safeguards equivalent to those required by applicable data protection laws are in place. For more information on the safeguards implemented by Medtronic, please contact us via email at rs.globaldataprivacyoffice@medtronic.com.

For more information on Medtronic affiliates (including those affiliates to whom personal data may be transferred) please consult Exhibit 21 of the most recent annual 10-K filing, available at <https://investorrelations.medtronic.com/sec-filings>.

Your privacy rights

You may have some of the rights below relating to your personal data, depending on applicable laws. Additional information may be found in the Specific Jurisdictions section

- Access your personal data and confirm how your personal data is being processed
- Transfer or obtain a copy in a structured, machine-readable, or portable format.
- Correct or amend if it is incomplete, inaccurate, or outdated
- Request deletion. Subject to applicable law, we may sometimes deidentify this data.
- Restrict or limit excessive or unlawful processing, where the accuracy of the data is contested
- Object to or opt-out of processing in circumstances where Medtronic claims a legitimate interest in its processing and where your rights outweigh those of Medtronic, such as where that data is used for direct marketing (including email or telephonic marketing)
- Withdraw (or manage) consent where it is the basis for processing, which may include cases where the data is sensitive or on children. Where consent is revoked, we will not further process that data unless required or otherwise permitted by applicable law

Exercising your rights

How to exercise your rights. You or your authorized agent may exercise these rights at any time by completing the Privacy Rights Request form, or by calling us at (+1) 866-639-6907.

Process. We will first confirm that we have received your request. For rights requests, we may be required to verify your identity, your right to access the information requested, and, as applicable, your authorized agent's authority to act on your behalf. We may need to ask you for additional information that will help us do so, including government-issued IDs containing your name and address, utility bills containing that same information, and/or unique identifiers like usernames. We will only use that additional information in the verification process, and not for any other purpose.

After the validation of identity and authority (including if we do not receive that information), we will process your request and then contact you with our response to your request, including any data and reasons for rejection as applicable, within the time required by applicable law. If we need more time, we will notify you in accordance with applicable law.

Fees. We may charge a reasonable fee in some geographies to process or respond to your request only if allowed by applicable law, for instance if it is excessive, repetitive, or manifestly unfounded. If a fee is warranted, we will tell you why we made that decision and provide you with a cost estimate before completing your request.

Additional Options. Depending on your jurisdiction, you may have additional options if you are dissatisfied with our response:

- You may internally appeal or contact our Data Protection Officer if you disagree with a decision we made about your rights. Please include a copy of or reference to the decision.
- You may also complain to a data protection or regulatory authority if you have further concerns about our data practices or our response to a request. If you need information about which authority may apply to you depending on your location and circumstances, please contact us.
- You will not be discriminated against for your exercise of your rights. This does not necessarily include, depending on applicable law in your jurisdiction, cases where a difference in price or services offered is reasonably related to the value provided by your data, or where you consent to participate in a voluntary loyalty or similar incentive program.

Children and personal data online

We do not intentionally collect personal data from children (as defined by applicable law) unless we have received verifiable consent (from the parent or the child, depending on the requirements of applicable law) unless a legal requirement or vital interest applies. If you believe we have collected personal data from a child, please contact us using the information found in the “How to contact us” section.

Special provision for specific jurisdictions

United States of America Supplemental Privacy Notice

Past practices. The statements in this notice are our data processing activities for the described scope of the notice both as current and within the past 12 months.

Protected health information under HIPAA. This notice does not apply to our data processing activities and practices for Protected Health Information (PHI), which is regulated under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA). In those cases, you may have received a Notice of Privacy Practices from Medtronic or your health care provider which will govern that data use. Data governed under HIPAA may be deidentified through either or both the Safe Harbor and Expert Determination methods. While that data is then deidentified, Medtronic does not, and will not permit others to, reidentify deidentified PHI except as required by applicable law or as directly consented to by the subject of that PHI.

Exercising consumer privacy rights: California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, and Virginia consumers have certain rights with respect to the collection and use of their Personal Information. Those rights vary by state. You may exercise the consumer privacy rights applicable to you under the applicable US state comprehensive privacy law through the methods mentioned below. We will respond to your request consistent with applicable law.

United States residents in the states listed above may submit a privacy rights request by:

- Completing our Privacy Rights Request Form, or
- Calling 1-866-639-6907 (toll-free).

You do not need to create an account to submit a request.

Your potential consumer privacy rights may include:

- Right to know what personal information Medtronic has collected about you, including
  - the categories of personal information
  - the categories of sources from which the personal information is collected

- the business or commercial purpose for collecting, selling, or sharing personal information
- the categories of third parties to whom Medtronic discloses personal information
- the specific pieces of personal information Medtronic has collected about you
- the specific third parties to whom Medtronic has disclosed personal information
- Right to delete personal information that Medtronic has collected from you, subject to certain exceptions.
- Right to correct inaccurate personal information that a Medtronic maintains about you.
- Right to opt-out of the sale or sharing of your personal information by Medtronic.
Note: Medtronic does not sell your personal data for money or other consideration, nor share it for direct or behavioral marketing purposes, with unrelated third parties, except as described in the cookies and similar technologies paragraph.
- Right to portability: Where required, you may request that we provide your personal information in a portable and readily usable format.
- Right to non-discrimination: We will not discriminate against you for exercising your privacy rights. This includes not denying products or services, charging different prices, or offering different levels of quality.
- Right to appeal: If we deny your request, you may have the right to appeal that decision. To do so, please submit your appeal via the Privacy Rights Request form, reference the decision and include the Reference ID associated with your request. We will respond consistent with applicable law.

California consumers may have the additional right to:

- Limit the Use and Disclosure of Sensitive Personal Information where Medtronic uses sensitive data for purposes beyond those permitted under the California Consumer Privacy Act, as amended.

Verification of consumer privacy rights requests: To safeguard personal information, Medtronic must verify your identity before processing certain requests. Verification may include confirming your name, email address, telephone number, or other information previously provided to us.

You may also designate an authorized agent to submit requests on your behalf. Agents must provide:

- Documentation showing authorization to act on your behalf, and
- Information necessary for Medtronic to verify your identity, or where required, to verify the agent's authority.

We may request additional information if needed to protect personal information.

Global Privacy Control (GPC) signals: Our website recognizes and honors Global Privacy Control (GPC) signals sent by your browser as a valid request to opt-out of sale or sharing of your personal information. When a GPC signal is detected, our website will display "Opt-Out Request Honored" in your privacy settings, and the toggle will reflect your opt-out status. To turn on the GPC signal, you can download one of the supported browsers or extensions. You may visit <https://globalprivacycontrol.org/> for a list of the available browsers or extensions. If you choose to use the GPC signal, you will need to turn it on for each supported browser or browser extension you use.

Updates to this privacy notice

This privacy notice may be updated periodically to reflect changes in our personal data practices. We will indicate at the top of the privacy notice when it was most recently updated.
