Intrapleural catheter is important technique to help pain control in difficult situation. These situations can be trauma, elderly patients and patients where diploids can cause serious respiratory depression. Rib fractures and other thoracic injuries are commonly treated. It is safe and effective technique which provides many hours of pain relief. Improves respiratory parameters and patient satisfaction.