CEO

ArcelorMittal Downstream-Solutions

I pursued my education at the Technical University of Berlin, specialising in industrial engineering, technical chemistry and waste management. My career has been marked by significant milestones, including roles as general manager at Immark Deutschland and Environplasma, followed by leadership positions at ALBA Group, where I oversaw plastics, paper, and e-waste business units.

In January 2017, I became CEO at ALBA International Recycling, leading efforts in e-waste, plastics recycling, paper sorting and trading, and end-of-life vehicle processing. My diverse skill set spans metal production, recycling, sustainability, climate change, and carbon foot printing, reflecting my dedication to environmental responsibility and the circular economy.

Currently, I continue to lead transformative efforts in recycling within the metal industry by responding the metal recycling activities in Arcelor Mittal Europe Group, acting as CEO in ArcelorMittal Downstream-Solutions.
