A NEW LONDON LEGACY

Nestled in the heart of Mayfair, the storied former U.S. Embassy has been reimagined by David Chipperfield Architects into an iconic masterpiece. Housing 144 suites and houses designed by Joseph Dirand, the building's strikingly angular exterior gives way to interiors of refined sophistication, where sleek modern lines meet plush textures. With abundant natural light and some of London's most captivating views, the transformation stands as a testament to timeless elegance and innovation.

At The Chancery Rosewood, discover a design icon, reborn for a new era. This Mayfair landmark opens its doors to welcome you into a dynamic world of exceptional music and art, enriching taste experiences and unforgettable moments of creativity. Originally built in 1960 by Eero Saarinen to house the US Embassy, The Chancery—and the gilded eagle sculpture that presides over its Portland stone façade—is one of London's most notable architectural masterpieces. In a new chapter with Rosewood, this modernist icon and Grade II-listed building now opens its doors to reveal a warmly inviting interior—alive with creativity, exceptional exchanges and unique collaborations.

Welcome to a new, dynamic epicentre of contemporary culture. Discover emerging talent with fresh perspectives and the most recognisable creatives across music, art, fashion, dining and wellness. Located in the former US Embassy on Grosvenor Square—known as London's "Little America"—The Chancery Rosewood draws on the rich history of the building and propels it into the future, welcoming a bold new era of culture and creativity to the city.

The 144 suites and houses at The Chancery Rosewood are some of the most superior accommodations in the city. Designed by Joseph Dirand and featuring re-edited sixties furniture from Eero Saarinen as well as hyper-personalised amenities, each elegant space is filled with natural light and a softly inviting sense of glamour.
