

Homicide Investigation Training

Live-Stream Interactive Course

Monday, May 23 - Tuesday, May 24, 2022

This class is focused on the proper management of scenes involving unattended deaths. The class begins with a review of basic crime scene and investigative principles, and then moves into the specific topic of managing scenes involving death.

This class will address the recognition, identification, interpretation and documentation of signs of death, and how these skills work together to further the investigative process. It will also address basic issues which arise during death investigations, such as legal authority while handling the crime scene, and issues which may arise during the interviews and interrogations of involved parties.

This class is highly interactive and calls on the attendee to use the knowledge used in the class to interpret crime scenes and organize an investigative plan. The attendee will be presented with actual scenarios from real investigations.

$390 per attendee ($195 per additional)

Homicide Investigation Training

Captain Everett C. Babcock

Kansas City Police Department

Captain Everett C. Babcock is in his 34thyear as a law enforcement officer. His career started in 1988 for a small agency in Sayre Oklahoma where he worked as both an officer and an investigator before taking a position in 1992 as an Investigator for the District Attorney's Office in Oklahoma's 2nd Judicial District, where he was assigned to the District 2 Drug Task Force which investigated major narcotic offenses throughout western Oklahoma.

In 1995 Captain Babcock moved to Kansas City, Missouri where he took a job with the Kansas City Missouri Police Department. Captain Babcock served as a patrol officer and field training officer before transferring to investigations in 1998 where he was assigned as a detective and unit training officer. In 2013 Captain Babcock was promoted to sergeant. After serving a short time back in patrol, he returned to investigations, assigned to homicide, the generalist squad and the assault squad. In 2018 Captain Babcock was promoted again to his current rank of Captain. After serving about a year-and-a-half back in patrol, Captain Babcock once again returned to investigations, serving as Captain over the Property Crimes Division and in his current assignment as Captain over the Homicide Unit.

The majority of Captain Babcock's time assigned to investigations as both a detective and a sergeant was spent assigned to the homicide unit. Captain Babcock also spent three years as the supervisor of the department's Police Shooting Team. Captain Babcock's homicide cases have been showcased on the television shows America's Most Wanted, The First 48, American Gangster, Fatal Attraction and the Unexpected Killer.

Captain Babcock holds a Bachelor of Science in Criminal Justice Administration Law Enforcement (Summa Cum Laude) from Park University and a Master of Science Degree in Criminal Justice from the University of Central Missouri. Captain Babcock is a certified Basic Instructor and Defensive Tactics Instructor through the Council on Law Enforcement Education and Training, and holds a Generalist Instructor License from the State of Missouri Department of Public Safety. Captain Babcock is a member of the International Homicide Investigators Association, the FBI Law Enforcement Executive Development Association the International Law Enforcement Trainers Association and the Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge #102.

Captain Babcock has been teaching law enforcement since 2012, and he has taught several classes for the Kansas City Missouri Police Department, including building and teaching their bi-annual Detective Academy. Captain Babcock also teaches at the Missouri Highway Patrol's Detective Academy. Since 2017, Captain Babcock has been teaching for the Dolan Consulting Group, teaching officers in classes all over the United States in the topics of New Detective Training, Homicide Investigations, Interviews and Interrogations and Reforming Your Agency's Lineup Procedures.
