MEMORANDUM

TO: Florida Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics

FROM: Douglas S. Bell & Aimee Diaz Lyon

DATE: May 5, 2023

SUBJECT: End of Session Report

The Legislature concluded its work Friday at 11am and adjourned, Sine Die. The 2023 Legislative Session was one of the busiest sessions in recent memory for both budget and policy initiatives. The Legislature passed a record number of bills and passed the largest budget in Florida history.

While most of its work was bipartisan, the supermajority Republican Legislature also used its primacy, when necessary, especially in the social policy arena. Governor DeSantis also partnered with legislative leaders to achieve the vast majority of his priorities as well, most of which overlapped with the Legislature's own goals. The Capitol was packed this session with passionate advocates either supporting or opposing many of the policy issues addressed. Governor DeSantis will take the next few weeks to address legislation for either signature or veto, as well as review the state budget for potential vetoes. The Legislature will take a short hiatus before it returns to Tallahassee in the fall for Interim Committee Meetings and preparation for the January 2024 Legislative Session.

To support child health policies, the FCAAP was engaged on numerous bills via meetings with bill sponsors, policy papers, emails to legislators, phone calls to legislators, testimony, and conversations with legislators and legislative staff. While several high profile bills that could negatively affect child health passed the Session, numerous bills and budget items that will significantly benefit child health passed as well.

Budget Highlights

With plenty of cash and very little drama the Florida legislature agreed to a record $117 billion state budget for FY 2023-2024. Bolstered by higher than expected tax revenues the legislature increased spending in most budget categories. The budget will next go to Governor DeSantis who has line-item veto power.

The legislature also passed a wide-ranging $2.7 billion tax package (HB 7063) with a series of permanent sales tax cuts as well as temporary sales tax “holidays” including:

- Permanent repeal of sales tax on certain baby and toddler products (such as cribs, strollers, breast pumps, diapers, clothing, etc);
- 14 day sales tax holiday on school supplies, puzzles, computers, etc., and
- Reduces the business rent tax from 5.5% to 4.5% (sales tax on commercial leases).

In an effort to address physician shortage issues, the legislature provided the following specific appropriations:

- $76 million to increase Medicaid reimbursements for physicians who provide Medicaid pediatric care. The precise manner of implementation for this increase has not been determined, so the FCAAP will work with stakeholders to ensure it is done in a way that provides the greatest impact for children.
- $30 million to “Slots for Doctors” Graduate Medical Education program to provide incentives for hospitals and Federally Qualified Health Centers with a statewide supply and demand deficit to increase residency positions.
- $16 million for the Florida Reimbursement Assistance for Medical Education Program (FLAME) for fiscal year 2023-2024 to encourage physicians to practice in underserved locations. The FCAAP worked with the Department of Health on implementation of the current FLAME program, which was boosted by $10 million during the Session, and the FCAAP will continue to work with the DOH in order to broadcast this opportunity to Florida pediatricians.
- $10 million in additional funds for FLAME for this fiscal year (2022-2023) bringing the total to $16 million.

In order to increase access to healthcare as children are being removed from Medicaid following the COVID 19 pandemic, the legislature passed legislation to expand enrollment of Florida Kidcare to 300% of the federal poverty level and this expansion was funded in the budget.

In an effort to repair the retention and recruitment problems within the Child Protection Team network, the FCAAP’s Committee on Child Abuse was very involved with legislative leaders to secure an additional $7 million of recurring funds for CPTs across Florida. FCAAP Engagement will continue during the implementation phase.
