Join other manufacturers from your region for a fun, four-hour development activity that teaches proactive problem solving, emphasizes cross-functional collaboration, and develops business IQ.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

Think of it as a flight simulator for business — a risk-free environment where your employees experience the real financial impact of your decisions without real-world consequences.

- Teams compete head-to-head running a fictional manufacturing company
- Analyze data & plan strategy under real market pressure
- Make decisions on operations, staffing, pricing & inventory
- See financial results of decisions in real time
- Rapid learning cycles — adapt strategy round by round

WHO SHOULD PARTICIPATE?

- Plant Managers & Operations Leaders
- Finance & Supply Chain Professionals
- Supervisors & Team Leads
- High-potential employees earmarked for leadership
- Anyone who wants to understand how daily decisions impact the bottom line

"The 'Ready or Not' business simulation run by the MMEC is a great learning tool for cross functional teams at manufacturing companies. I attended a game in February 2026 and it was one of the best business simulations I have ever participated in. I can recommend it for any team that is struggling and wants to improve."

(Tim Wilson, Bozeman)
